

WUWNet'18

December 3-5, 2018, Shenzhen, China

The 13th ACM International Conference on Underwater Networks & Systems

WE INVITE YOU!

WUWNet is the premier venue for sharing the state-of-the-art research and development of underwater networks and systems, as it brings together leading scientists and entrepreneurs from all over the world. This year WUWNet will be held in Shenzhen, Guangdong, December 3-5. Shenzhen is one of the most vibrant and fast growing cities in China. Conveniently located near Hongkong, Shenzhen is the world hub of electronics manufacturing. Also, Shenzhen is recognized by the Chinese National Development and Reform Committee (NDRC) and State Oceanic Administration (SOA) as a global leading maritime city, which makes it an ideal location for this year edition of WUWNet.

WUWNet 2018 will span three days, including presentations of keynote speeches, plenary talks, panel discussions, technical papers, and posters/demos sessions. We invite academia and industry participants from a broad range of backgrounds relevant to underwater sensing, communications, networking, robotics, systems, and applications to participate in the conference.
